The African Agricultural AI & Drone Initiative (AAADI) is a twenty-four-month, $8,125,000,000 initiative sponsored by the Catholic Project Fund to transform 5 million smallholder farmers across eight priority countries of Africa into higher-yield, lower-cost agricultural entrepreneurs. Rather than distributing subsidized inputs, AAADI builds a complete precision-agriculture ecosystem around every sponsored farmer — hardware, connectivity, AI advisory, shared drone services, payments, and visualization infrastructure — so each participant finishes the program with a measurably more productive farm, not just a certificate.

Each farmer receives a $1,625 package: a rugged AgTech tablet, one year of satellite or mobile connectivity, a Jozie AI crop-advisory license, shared Aero Ghost drone service credits, SCM Financials payment and financing onboarding, a Beezifi farm management license, a YouLabs visualization intelligence license, and training and logistics support. AAADI runs on a disciplined 24-month, two-wave roadmap from governance and procurement through tablet and drone-hub deployment, progressive skill-building, and a Month-24 continental harvest showcase and investor event.

What Makes AAADI Different

- A complete precision-agriculture infrastructure, not an input handout — connectivity, AI advisory, drone services, payments, and visualization are bundled with every tablet
- Five integrated technology partners — Jozie AI, Aero Ghost, SCM Financials, Beezifi, and YouLabs — operate as one coherent system, not five disconnected apps
- Five sponsorship tiers scale transparently from $1,625 (one farmer) to $812,500,000 (500,000 farmers)
- Quarterly reporting against published KPIs for every sponsor, at every tier
